What Goeth on in Gotham-The Sharons:

Closed Again-Pittsburg, Pa., 26 -The Pennsylvania Bank closed its doors again at 12 o'cleck to-day, and posted the following notice on the door: "Mr. Riddle, the president and chief executive officer of the bank, having become suddenly and seriously ill and unable to communicate with the board of directors, it is deemed proper to close the bank under ex-isting circumstances until he sufficiently recovers to be present at the adjustment of its affairs. By order or the board." Officers were placed in charge, who refuse to permit an audience with any of the board. There is great excitement. News of the second suspension spread rapidly. It created intense excitement and surprise, owing to the fact that everybody had faith in the bank's ability to pay all claims. The immediate cause is at present unknown. Nothing definite can b. learned, as the directors positively refused to be interviewed. Large crowds have been flocking to the pank, and the pavement in front is filled with anxious depositors and persons attracted through curlosity. President Riddle appeared in usual health at 10 this morning, but half an hour later was prostrated by hemorrhage of the lungs, and since then has had three repetitions thereof. He is lying at Duquesne Club room; unconscious, with only slight hopes of recovery. Close friends of Mr. Riddle are unable to give an explanation of the sudden turn of affairs. It is said, however, that there has been a heavy run on the bank this morning, principally by checks, and $250,000 bas been drawn in this way through the Clearing House. The crash was brought about by the Clearing House throwing out checks amounting to $265,000. According to the statement of directors the bank had raised $931,000 to pay its liabilities, $918,000. It is said there were $300,000 certified check which were not included in this and which had to be paid. The, banks which loaned the suspended institution funds to tide them over are amply secured. The cause of Riddle's illr taken this morning. Physicians are
